County Symphony Plays Local Composer's Work In Carmel Monday Night

The premiere performance of Symphony in E, latest work of Pacific Grove composer, Philippe Buhler, above, will be played by the Monterey County Symphony on Monday evening during a concert in Sunset School Auditorium starting at 8:30 o'clock. The composition was especially commissioned by the orchestra for performance at this time and will highlight a program including music of Mozart, Wagner, and Copland.

Although Philippe Buhler has composed and published a number of works, including sacred songs, quartets, and shorter orchestra pieces, Symphony in E is the first full symphony that he has attempted. Mr. Buhler, who received his musical training both in his native Europe and in the United States, has become known to Peninsula audiences since he settled here almost four years ago. His compositions, Cantate Domino, Psalm 95, and Octet, were premiered here in 1960 and 1961.

In addition to the Buhler work, the Monterey County Symphony, under the direction of John Gosling, will perform Copland's Outdoor Overture, Wagner's Siegfried's Rhine Journey, and Mozart's Concerto for Flute and Harp. The concerto will display the talents of two outstanding soloists, Raymond Fabrizio, flute, and Joel Andrews, harp.

Tickets for Monday's performance are available at the Browse Around Record Shop. Because an unusually heavy demand for seats has already been reported, season ticket holders who will not be able to attend the concert are asked to turn in their tickets before Monday, so that the Symphony can benefit from a double sale.

AMBULANCE CALL

A visitor to Carmel from Denver, Colorado, Mrs. Charles P. Treadway, fell on the sidewalk in front of Cypress West Hotel yesterday evening and was taken to the Peninsula Community Hospital by Red Cross ambulance, operated by the Carmel Fire Department. She was treated at the hospital for possible hip injuries.

Big Surprise For Youth Center In Morning Mail

There was a surprise in the mail this morning for Jack Giles, director of the Carmel Youth Center. It was a check for $500.00.

The donation to the Youth Center came from Helms Foundation, Inc., and was transmitted through the Bing Crosby Fund office by Peter Ferrante. A letter accompanied the check and explained that Paul Helms, Jr., of Los Angeles, because of illness, was unable to come here for the Crosby Tournament this year. He watched it on television, however, and saw what the Sunday weather conditions were.

Mr. Helms realized that Youth Center tournament food sales were curtailed by the inclement climate, also knew the sales helped support the teenage recreation center. So, he sent a check.

In MPC District Six-Year, 45-Cent Override Looms

Monterey Peninsula Junior College District trustees decided, last night, to meet in special session February 8 to consider calling a special override tax election in April for capital outlay purposes only.

The election and a six-year override tax, not to exceed 45 cents, was proposed to the college board in a report from the MPC Citizens' Committee. This report stated that the election committee of the citizens' group unanimously recommended the election, also an override tax, preferably 42-45 cents, to purchase the MPC campus and construct certain buildings.

The proposed override tax, if set at 45 cents per $100 assessed valuation, in three years would realize $2,129,352, approximately the two-and-a-half million dollar MPC campus purchase price asked by Monterey High School District. At the end of six years, a 45-cent override tax would realize an additional $2,579,401 for the construction of buildings needed to meet an expected MPC enrollment of 2500 students in 1966.

The Citizens' Committee, in their report, however, recommended both campus purchase and building construction should commence simultaneously; the construction program should indicate facilities to be built in the first two years of the override tax; and priorities should be established for such construction by the college trustees.

Trustee Dr. Brooks Lockhart, questioned last night the advisability of constructing buildings in the first two years of the override tax. He pointed out Carmel Unified School District voters were promised in 1960 that no capital outlay, such as building construction, would be needed for four years, also by that time state aid might lighten the taxpayers' load if buildings were needed.

Trustee Marjorie O'Dea appeared to be in favor of two override tax programs, the first to purchase the campus, the second for construction. The Citizens' Committee report stated two separate tax programs, a year or so apart would be difficult to present to the voters, also cause confusion, and therefore, the committee recommended the six-year override program for both campus purchase and building.

College trustee from Carmel, Mark Raggett, suggested that possible sources of state aid be explored by the board, also that outlines of the college building needs and costs be presented for study next week. In addition, Mr. Raggett requested a detailed report on the tax situation in Carmel, Monterey and Pacific Grove school districts.

He indicated later that he does not wish any proposed MPC override tax to jeopardize education in these three districts which also comprise and support Monterey Peninsula Junior College District.

Basic MPC tax now is 39 cents. With the 45-cent override, total MPC tax would amount to 84 cents per $100 assessed valuation of land in the college district.

Carmel residents now pay a $2.35 school tax which includes the district's present override tax. Added to this, in Carmel, is a 21-cent bond tax; Valley property owners pay more. This year the junior college tax in Carmel district was 51 cents.

Council To Consider Four Requests On Tree Tour Tuesday

The city council will consider four requests on their monthly tree tour meeting which starts from City Hall at 4:00 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Rear Admiral C. W. Fisher (USN Ret.), whose home is at Casanova Street and Ninth Avenue, wants the council to decide whether or not two limbs shall be removed from a black acacia tree in front of his home as a matter of safety. One rests on utility wires, the other overhangs the public right of way. Admiral Fisher reports a third limb has already fallen from the tree.

The Carmel Seniors Club is asking that a vehicle ramp be installed at the First and Mission park site so that members with physical handicaps may drive down to the lower level of the adult recreation area. The council will act on this request on the tree tour.

Next stop for the council will be at First Avenue and Torres Street where the P.G.&E. Company wishes to install a new utility pole in the public domain.

Councilmen will also consider the request of Carmel Plaza Corporation to relocate the 35-foot entrance to the Plaza parking lot immediately behind the Plaza building on the east side of Mission Street below Ocean Avenue to a point on the same side of the street 81 feet north of Seventh Avenue.

Can Carmel Replace By March 7 Mrs. Leidig Who Has Served On Election Boards For Forty Years?

If Mrs. Clara B. Leidig had continued on the Carmel City election board which she has served since April 10, 1922, she would have this year been completing 40 years' service to the day, since this year's election will also fall on April 10.

But ill health and personal considerations caused Mrs. Leidig's retirement from the board this week, leaving a vacancy impossible to fill as far as devotion to duty, length of service and personality are concerned.

Mrs. Leidig has served on every single election board since 1922, which means she has served in all but two elections ever held by Carmel, which was incorporated in 1916.

Not many Carmelites are still around who have the memories Clara Leidig has of that 1922 election day when 336 Carmel residents walked (yes, walked, of course) to the polls.

Serving with Mrs. Leidig, who was one of the judges, on the 1922 election board were Paul C. Prince, C. O. Goold, Kathryn Overstreet and Herbert Heron.

Candidates that year were William Dummage, George Dorwart, William T. Kibbler, William L. Maxwell, Helen W. Parkes and C. H. Yates, all running for full four-year council terms, and Harrison W. Askew and Perry Newberry, running for short, or two-year, terms.

There were also two bond issues at stake, one to build a city hall, one to buy a fire truck. Neither passed. Speaking of the historic occasion this week, the present City Clerk-Comptroller L. D. Rose remarked, "Seems a shame . . and they could have bought a fire truck and all the equipment for $6000 then too."

Kibbler, Maxwell, Parkes and Newberry carried the votes and confidence of their fellow townsmen in that election.

Since then, the single board has been replaced by four separate boards, and the 336 voters who turned out in 1922 have been succeeded in the most recent election by 1,646, most of whom no longer walk to the polls.

Clara Leidig, who was born in Blanco, outside Salinas, more than 70 years ago, first came to Carmel about 1910, and has been ever since one of the village's most enthusiastic supporters, although the many ways in which she has helped out through the years often remain a secret, even to her closest friends.

For many years she, and her husband, Fred Leidig, an equally well-known citizen of Carmel, operated a wood and coal business, Mr. Leidig retiring in 1937.

Through the years, Clara Leidig's position as a private citizen on city policy has been that Carmel should retain its individuality without sacrificing its capacity for

JEFFERS MEMORIAL

Selections from the poetry of Robinson Jeffers will be read on February 14, 8:00 o'clock in the evening, at the Golden Bough Circle Theatre by Eric Barker, Big Sur poet, and Kenneth Ford, Carmel poet and teacher of English in the Monterey school system.

The readings will be a memorial tribute to Robinson Jeffers, one of America's greatest poets, who died on January 21 in Tor House, his home on Carmel Point.

The public is invited to the memorial free of charge. However, members of Robinson Jeffers' family suggest that donations in his memory may be made on this occasion to the Carmel chapter of the American Red Cross. Use of the theatre is being donated as a tribute to the poet's memory.

PADRE HOOPSTERS AT GONZALES FRIDAY NIGHT

Carmel High's basketball squads face an ambitious schedule during the next week, engaging in four games over an eight-day period. The Padres travel to Gonzales tomorrow night for a triple-header with the swift Spartans; go to Watsonville Saturday night for three jousts with the Wildcats; host Pacific Grove in a league game next Tuesday; and round out the arduous week by making the long jaunt to King City for a triple header on Friday, February 9.

With a 2-2 record in league play, Coach Dick Lawitzke's varsity charges have to continue their winning ways for the rest of the season to stand any chance of catching Bob Hagen's high-flying Gilroy Mustangs. The Mustangs have been running roughshod over all opposition in league play, and appear to be getting stronger as the season progresses. However, the Carmel lads have looked sharp in their last two outings while posting victories over the strong Live Oak and San Lorenzo Valley teams. San Lorenzo and Live Oak are deadlocked for second place in the league standings and each must play the other twice before the season is completed. The Padres have the benefit of the scheduling by not having to play Gilroy, San Lorenzo, Live Oak or Hollister again.

Slightly handicapped by the loss of Jim Brown and Bob Palma by scholastic ineligibility, the Padres still figure to take the measure of the stubby Gonzales aggregation. The Spartan varsity is lightweight size and doesn't figure to get more than one shot at a time against, the strong rebounding of Carmel's Pete Morse and Jim Kelley. With Brown out of the lineup, diminutive Teddy Leidig will have to pick up the scoring slack to maintain their combined 25-point per game average. Rich Shively and Page van Loben Sels have been looking good in practice during the past week and each is expected to help the Padre attack move.

Coach Harold Lippstreu's once-beaten lightweight five figures to handle the Little Spartans without too much difficulty, but may run into a tough nut Tuesday afternoon against the Pacific Grove Wavelets. The Carmel Babes still look to be the class of the B-division despite a loss to first-place Live Oak. The well-conditioned quintet of Rich Wise, Jose Fernandez, Al Arndt, Jack DeWitt, and Enborg Halle has shown lots of staying power in recent games and hasn't needed much help from the reserve list.

Carmel's junior-varsity has had rough sledding so far this season, as the inexperienced players attempt to get the feel of the court. However, Coach Clyde Klaumann's charges stand an even-up chance against the Spartan reserves, and a victory may be in the offing. Lack of a tall rebounder has hurt the Padre jayvees in most of their outings, and the loss of Jim Belvail via the scholastic ineligibility route is a jolt to the rebounding department. Jim had been the most improved player on the squad until the Carmel High eligibility code smote him down.

Three of the triple-headers to be played during the next week will start with the jayvees at 5:30; lightweights at 7:00; and the varsity about 8:30. However, Tuesday night's game with Pacific Grove will have the jayvees on at 4:00 o'clock; lightweights at 5:30; and varsity at 7:00 o'clock.

PADRES CLIP SAN LORENZO VALLEY IN OVERTIME

In one of the most exciting basketball games ever played at the Carmel High School pavilion, Coach Dick Lawitzke's well-trained Padre varsity tripped the classy San Lorenzo Cougars, 50 to 45, in last Friday night's CCAL B-division tourney. Tense action prevailed throughout the entire contest as neither team was able to build up any sizable margin. When the final buzzer sounded, the score was all knotted up at 44-44, and moved into overtime. The cool Padres meshed six points in the three - minute overtime period while holding the talented Cougars to a single digit. Ted Leidig and Jim Kelley came through with field goals in the extra action, while Pete Morse and Jim Brown each made good on a charity toss.

Quarter - by - quarter scoring found the two teams deadlocked at 6-6 at the end of the first period; 15-15 at the half; and 30-30 at the end of the third quarter. The visitors had a two-point bulge with seconds remaining in the game when Carmel's Pete Morse made good on a pair of free throws to force the game into overtime.

Scoring honors were garnered by Ted Leidig who pumped through seven field goals to put 14 Padre points on the board. San Lorenzo's all-league performer, Steve Rodriguez, also picked up 14 points on five field goals and four free shots. Besides doing a brilliant job of rebounding and playmaking, Jim Brown, Pete Morse, and Jim Kelley all hit in the double figures to swell the Carmel total. Morse was especially effective in the clutch situations, sinking pressure-packed free-throws and providing valuable points in the overtime.

Carmel's smooth-working lightweight five trimmed the visiting Cougar Babes, 52 to 44, in a game which went just about as expected. The Padre lights had too much size and speed for the hard-trying mountain boys, and had game control for most of the contest. With Rich Wise, Al Arndt, and Jose Fernandez shooting with the precision of professionals, the Padre Babes looked to be head and shoulders the best lightweight team in the CCAL A or B division. Fine playmaking by Enborg Halle and Jack DeWitt served to make the going easy for the Carmel gang.

The Carmel junior-varsity came close, but couldn't quite get over the hump as they missed by one free throw. Each team collected 12 field goals only to have the San Lorenzo reserves cop the 42-41 verdict on the strength of 18 Annie Oakleys to 17 for the Padres. Bob Wells (12) and Al Nishimura (11) paced the Carmel scoring, while the rebounding of Jim Belvail and Stan Michelson supplemented the fine floor play of Mike Brasher and Bob Larson.

Versatile Cast In Dramatic Reading Opens At Circle

Gertrude Chappell returns to the stage of the Golden Bough Theatre tomorrow evening as narrator of the Irish dramatic reading, Pictures in the Hallway. Adapted by Paul Shyre from the autobiography of Sean O'Casey, Pictures in the Hallway is set in the form of a story, told by Mrs. Chappell, with six other actors bringing to life the individual scenes in her narrative.

Cast in the central role of Johnny Casside, the adolescent O'Casey himself, is Nick Hovick, a talented Monterey High School student who has appeared once before at the Circle, in The Skin of Our Teeth. Hovick is the only one of the six actors who plays a single part. The remaining five enact an average of five roles apiece, ranging from Johnny's boyhood friends and sweethearts to a hard-bitten old biddy and a crusty veteran of the Crimean war.

The extraordinary variety of these roles will serve to show off the versatility of actors Mark Vance, Marge Hirschkind, William M. Fitzhugh, Jr., Renee Wurzmann and Earl Bozlee.

Vance, who will be remembered as the young Thomas Wolfe of last year's Look Homeward, Angel, has played in several local theatres and is now a drama student at Monterey Peninsula College. Mrs. Hirschkind, whose only recent experience in acting has been in Monterey actors' workshop conducted last year, handles with ease the strong female character roles which were assigned to Aline MacMahon, star of the play in its New York production. Dr. William Fitzhugh, local physician and art collector, has appeared at the Forest Theater in Ondine, and with Nick Hovick at the Circle in The Skin of Our Teeth.

Renee Wurzmann, well known in Carmel as both a dancer and an actress, appears at the Circle for the first time in many years, having spent much of the intervening time as a student of ballet, both on this coast and in New York. Her first performance at the Golden Bough was also the Circle debut of Gertrude Chappell, in Autumn Crocus. Earl Bozlee completed a run in the First Theatre production of Way Down East last week end, just in time to assume several major assignments in Pictures in the Hallway.

An unusual feature of the new production assembled by director Frederick Rider will be the presence on the stage of flutist Vista Jean Schafer, who will accompany much of the action with snatches of Irish folk tunes and revolutionary marches.

Pictures in the Hallway is scheduled for a run of five week ends, ending March 4.

Cecil Haskell

Cecil Frank Haskell, who for many years took an active part in the community life of Carmel, died Saturday in a Salinas hospital following a brief period of illness.

He was 67, a native of San Jose, and a veteran of World War I. He had made his home on the Peninsula for the past 33 years, and is perhaps best remembered here for his long and active devotion to and participation in Forest Theater events.

Mr. Haskell was also a member of Carmel Post 512, American Legion, and of the Woodmen of the World. Before his retirement several years ago, he had a trucking business on the Peninsula.

Survivors include Mrs. Jane Betts of Palo Alto and Mrs. Betty House of Medford, Oregon, both daughters; Miss Elizabeth Esterly of Cupertino, California, who is a stepdaughter; Mrs. Bernardine Kesler of Long Beach, a sister; and four grandchildren.

Private rites were solemnized Tuesday in Monterey, and were to be followed by inurnment in Oak Hill Memorial Park of San Jose.

ORIGINAL SIN FORUM

Original Sin will be the topic of the Catholic Inquiry Forum at the Carmel Mission Chapel Monday evening at 8:00 o'clock. Father Walter Anthony, Paulist missionary priest, will discuss the Fall of Adam and Eve, and the longing for a Savior and his coming into the world.

The lecture-film is designed for persons who wish to investigate the teachings of Christianity as taught by the Catholic Church, persons married to Catholics or about to marry Catholics, and baptized persons who have never made their first confession, received first communion, or the sacrament of confirmation.

There is no cost or obligation. Everyone is welcome.

Salgo To Audition Singers Saturday For Bach Chorus

A final reminder regarding Saturday's auditions for the Bach Festival Chorus has been issued by festival officials. Sandor Salgo, festival conductor, will personally audition prospective members, and interested singers, both men and women, are asked to contact the Bach Festival office, MA 4-3437, for an appointment.

In honor of the Bach Festival's 25th anniversary year, an unusually interesting season is being planned. The chorus, which has attained an enviable reputation of growth and ability over the past two decades, will again play a vital part in the festival. As in past years, the chorus will be called upon to perform several difficult and exacting major choral works. Scheduled for performance this year are the uncut version of Bach's St. Matthew Passion, Handel's Jeptha, and a Bach Magnificat.

Rehearsals, under the supervision of Angie Machado, will commence February 13 at 7:30 o'clock, and will continue each Tuesday thereafter.

The management has asked that previous members of the chorus state whether or not they will continue with the group this season. This notification must be made prior to the Saturday auditions for new members.

Summit Conferences Disaster To United States, Aid Russia, Crocker Tells WAC Members

BY C. A. DE CAMP

Speaking on the topic, How the Communists Mean To Win, George N. Crocker, author and former law school dean, told members of the Monterey Peninsula World Affairs Council at their last meeting that the Summit Conference, as a new diplomatic procedure, has brought disaster to the United States.

"In the short space of 44 years of organized conquest, Communist Russia has subjugated one-fourth of the land area of the globe and holds subject over a billion people," Crocked stated.

"In this unprecedented progress," he continued, "the Soviets have employed an arsenal of weapons of every sort known to man in the psychological realm, as well as munitions of war, and they can count the Summit Conference as the one by which they have effected their greatest gains."

"In my opinion," Crocker added, "the Summit Conference is a very dangerous departure from the means and methods of international diplomacy, inasmuch as it requires personal identification. In other words, the impersonal consideration of the problems of a world of people, both economic and political, are reduced to a contest between two dominating personalities, neither personality being necessarily truly representative of the peoples whose fate they seal.

"Also, of the people who are represented by a Summiteer, those of the democracies are entitled to a knowledge of the facts of the cases considered, in contra-distinction to the personal likes and dislikes of their representative," Crocker declared.

To illustrate his last point, he said, "It will be remembered that in his Christmas Eve broadcast to the American people in 1943, President Franklin D. Roosevelt referred to Marshal Joseph Stalin in these words: 'He is a man who combines a tremendous relentless determination with a stalwart good humor. I believe he is truly representative of the heart and soul of Russia; and I believe we are going to get along very well with him and the Russian people, very well indeed.'"

Pointing out some of the dangerous results of personality injection in Summit meetings, Crocker also cited the Roosevelt-Churchill meeting in Newfoundland in 1941 which resulted in the Atlantic Charter.

"To the American people this was a new charter of humanity, transcending in importance everything that had gone before, including the Magna Carta, and certainly worth going to war for. It was received by the British as a 'stale magniloquence, a rhetorical manifesto'; by the Russians as another opportunity to commit a fraud. They vowed allegiance to it and its non-aggression stipulations at the very time they were invading Poland," Crocker emphasized.

Crocker followed through by citing the Casablanca Summit Conference before which Roosevelt told Churchill, "I think I can handle Stalin better than either of you, or your Foreign Office, or my State Department." As a result, Churchill's plan for an attack on Germany through Italy and the Balkans was abandoned because Stalin would have none of it. Churchill foresaw this plan as one that would leave Russia as less Soprano Marilyn Horne, above, will give the first public concert in the new music building at Monterey Peninsula College on February 23 at 8:30 o'clock in the evening.

The public is invited by the MPC music department, sponsor of the concert, to attend without charge.

Marilyn Horne made her operatic debut singing several leading roles with the Los Angeles Guild Opera. She also took part at this time in concerts and recording sessions with Igor Stravinsky, Robert Craft, the Roger Wagner Chorale and Monday Evening Concerts.

From 1955 through 1959 she traveled back and forth between the United States and Europe while fulfilling a three-year contract with the municipal opera of Gelsenkirchen in Germany, making guest appearances in Italy and keeping concert commitments in this country.

She made her American operatic debut in 1960 at the San Francisco Opera singing the role of Marie in Berg's Wozzeck. A few months later she was guest soloist for the Los Angeles Philharmonic. In February of last year she sang the role of Agnese in Bellini's opera, Beatrice de Tenda, presented by the American Opera Society in New York.

During the later part oof the past century, Mrs. Marble used to spend vacations on the Monterey Peninsula with her parents; in 1924 she and her husband purchased Tularcitos Ranch in Carmel Valley. They lived at the ranch when they were not at the home they maintained in Pasadena, where Mr. Marble founded the Marble Company mortgage firm in 1900. He is also a retired director of the Bank of America and General Telephone Company.

Mrs. Marble's sons are John Marble of Carmel Valley and Robert E. Marble of Palo Alto, her daughter, Mrs. John H. Hinrichs of Washington, D. C. She also has seven grandchildren, among them Mrs. Carmel Martin, Jr., of Monterey.

Private funeral services were conducted from the Marble home in Pasadena.

Wilderness Of The West

A monthly column
By C. Edward Graves

36. — WILDERNESS: AMERICA'S LIVING HERITAGE

This is the title of a book just published by the Sierra Club, which contains papers presented at the Seventh Wilderness Conference held last spring in San Francisco. It is an unusualy beautiful book, well bound and tastefully printed and illustrated with 26 full-page reproductions of Philip Hyde's remarkable photographs. This latter feature alone makes the book well worth the price of $5.75.

There are some 20 papers and talks by nationally known conservation leaders contained in 204 pages of text. Some of the names of these leaders are excellent evidence of the rapid growth of the Wilderness Conference from a small gathering of less than 100 Californians at Berkeley in 1949 to the present large convention of several hundred prominent conservationists from all parts of the country. Some of the best known speakers were: Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas; Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall; Rep. John P. Saylor of Pennsylvania; writers Joseph Wood Krutch, Sigurd F. Olson, and Wallace Stegner; photographer Ansel Adams, and many others.

A full-scale review of a book containing such diverse material could only be very general in nature. Each one of these 20 papers or talks could be made the subject of a complete 500-word review, which is the limit set on this monthly column. Perhaps, then, it might be better to single out one of these papers and concentrate on that.

Suppose we take the first one in the book, the paper read by Justice Douglas. Its title is Wilderness and Human Rights. Justice Douglas has come to be known as one of our foremost defenders of wilderness values. He has written several books about his personal experiences in the mountains and wilderness places of the country. The first one, Of Men and Mountains, tells the story of his early life, in which he overcame the handicap of polio by exercising on the wilderness trails in the State of Washington.

Here are two pertinent quotations from his paper: "The machine and the disappearing wilderness should be our foremost concern. They threaten to mutilate this good earth of ours from which man gets his strength. With automation will come a shorter work week and it will coincide with a tremendous population bulge. The two forces mean that recreation and leisure will create new problems in new dimensions. Labor leaders as well as conservationists are concerned. Will man's primary leisure-time activity be drinking beer and watching television?"

"Man's pursuit of happiness, which Jefferson made the concern of government in our Declaration of Independence, must be our concern. While man needs a full rice bowl, he also needs more. His chief destiny is not to satisfy his physical needs. Man is a spiritual being. By our Bill of Rights we have placed many of his civil rights beyond the reach of government. We need to expand our conception of man's liberty, enlarge his individual rights and give them priority over Science.

"Those Human Rights include the right to put one's face in clear, pure water; to discover the wonders of sphagnum moss; and to hear the song of the whippoorwill at dawn in a forest where the wilderness bowl is unbroken."

Two pages of his paper are devoted to a description of what has happened in the Middle East and Africa from a lack of concern with wilderness conservation. He adds: "One sees in the Middle East occasional big trees, standing in splendid isolation. They are known locally as jin trees, possessed by some friendly spirit. Here people often pray or offer votaries."

This rather pathetic custom is probably due to a feeling of shame or regret that there are no forests of big trees left. It might be well to do our praying before, rather than after, the desecration has been accomplished.

Mrs. Miriam McClaren Marble, who for many years made her home in Carmel Valley, died on January 25, in South Pasadena, leaving her husband, John Emerson Marble, two sons and a daughter.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galvin Thornburg

Speaking from a publishing standpoint, this is the age of the big picture book. And this state is aided and abetted by the magazine publishers who are putting out large, almost extravagant books filled with beautiful illustrations. Life magazine has just published their latest which is entitled The Epic of Man. Because the material is taken from the magazine, the reader who follows each issue of Life may have already read the book. But taken as a whole, it is fascinating. Each chapter takes up a different stage of man's progress down the ages, and each chapter has its own bibliography in the back of the book so that the interested reader can pursue the matter further if he so desires. A big book, Life-size, in fact.

Probably the most personal of the books about Clark Gable is the one written by his wife, Kathleen Gable. It is full of pictures of the people Clark Gable worked with in motion pictures, of family photographs too, and of these the most charming are the ones which show John Clark Gable, the small son of the famous actor.

Love Song to the Plains is the title of Marie Sandoz' latest book. This is the story of the plains states, windswept in the summer, blizzard-wracked in the winter. The Indians, the settlers, the rivermen, the soldiers, the cattlemen, all are here playing their important roles. Marie Sandoz is a Nebraskan who loves her home region and writes about it with tenderness.

A timely book is Kennedy Government by Stan Opotowsky. This is a study of the men in the Kennedy cabinet, their policies, aims, working habits, histories, and even their futures. The author is a newspaper reporter with several books to his credit. He has concentrated on the political careers of the men who are included here. After a year in office, this balanced appraisal is needed.

Georges Blond, who wrote The Great Migration, has a new animal book, this one entitled The Elephants. The author tells all about elephants, where and how they live, how they are captured, how they must be treated after capture. Both wild and tame elephants are here in an absorbing book.

Two new books by Leonard Brooks are Course in Wash Drawing and Course in Casein Painting. They are slim, explicit books, meant for the beginner. They have diagrams to show just what materials are needed, and examples to show what happens when the materials are used as they should be. Good stuff, here.

We know that every home should have a good atlas and most of the time we do not supply atlases for borrowing. But we do have a new small atlas in the regular collection which is called Oxford Home Atlas of the World. Besides the usual maps, it has a group of smaller ones in the back of the book which show the products of the different areas of the world, and other things such as population densities and the various international blocs. Much more here than the rather small size of the book might indicate.

Lots of fiction, too, of course, and a new group of Canadian films. And we have the county library projector, too.

Howard Cleaves, above, will present his colorful Audubon Wildlife Film, Animals Are Exciting, at Sunset School Auditorium Tuesday evening at 8:00 o'clock. He will take his audience along nature's byways and flyways from his Staten Island home to the snows of the Canadian Rockies.

The prominent naturalist, in his movie, visits the only purple martin colony in New York City, crosses into New Jersey, where, almost in sight of Manhattan's towers, he finds a saucy weasel family. Further afield in rural New York, he confronts raccoons, bear and deer. He tempts hungry beavers out of hiding with freshly-cut poplar saplings, their first choice in food.

An extraordinary red fox sequence is filmed in New England. Next focal point in the film is the Midwest, including Milwaukee, Wisconsin, a visit to the famed "Otter Man," Emil Liers of Homer, Minnesota, and the world's largest feeding station at Mitchell, South Dakota. Over 100,000 redwinged blackbirds are filmed performing intricate maneuvers near Sand Lake in that state.

Finally, winter storms in the Midwest, mountain states, and Canada are depicted.

The Audubon wildlife lecture series is co-sponsored by the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society and the Carmel Adult School.

Two Wildlife Films February Programs Of Audubon Society

Two activities are announced by the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society for the month of February.

Howard Cleaves is scheduled to narrate the fourth in a series of Wildlife Films in Sunset School on Tuesday evening at 8:00 o'clock. The colored motion picture, Animals are Exciting, will bring to the audience the antics of animals in their rustic habitats. The tours are sponsored by the Carmel Adult School, the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society and the National Audubon Society. Tickets may be purchased at the door before the lecture.

The regular monthly meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society will be held in the music room of Carmel High School on February 9 at 8:00 o'clock in the evening. Immediately preceding the meeting, William N. Goodall, western representative of the National Audubon Society, will present a film, The Bald Eagle, Our National Bird. This absorbing motion picture represents years of work by Dr. Arthur A. Allen and Dr. Bayard W. Read, ornithologists and photographers.

The bald eagle has greatly decreased recently because inexorable urbanization has gradually taken over its habitat. It is estimated that less than 5,000 of these birds now exist in the 48 contiguous states. In view of the eagle's prominence in our folklore and our national tradition, the program should be of interest to members and other persons.

Tribute To Jeffers . . .

BY DORA HAGEMEYER

It is perhaps a little too soon to write of Robinson Jeffers and what he has meant to his fellow-men, but during these few days since his death it has become increasingly evident that we have lost one of the greatest poets of our generation. Not only a poet but a prophet. Moreover, that we have not lost him, but that he has been reborn into his own vision. His great works remain with us, and the life that was his now becomes theirs in ever-growing vitality, for it is not always possible to see a man's works in their true prospective while he is with us. But after he is gone they shine with their own true worth.

The poems of Jeffers speak with the voice of this beautiful Pacific Coast. The enormous heights and depths, the evidence of violence in the split granite, the lines of tragedy in the writhing trees, the undertones of the ocean — all proclaim with magnificent voices a story beyond the range of our realization. Jeffers has shown us what great beauty is. His poems are full of transcendent passages which arise out of the depths, and lift the spirit beyond the little things which darken our perceptions, into the wide, unbounded heights of the free. Here is something beyond humanity, something challenging, something ennobling —and at the same time terrifying and tragic.

It has often been said that Jeffers despises humanity. This criticism reveals perhaps a lack of understanding on the part of the reader. It might be truer to say that Jeffers deplores the state of humanity as it now is. The mountains, the trees, the ocean, the vast creations of nature have fulfilled their destiny, but we, humanity, have not fulfilled ours. We have turned aside from our true goal into endless dark paths until we have become the negation of what we were meant to be. Where is the great song "the wind-struck music man's loves were moulded to be the harp for?"

There is stark tragedy as well as beauty in these poems. All have new dimension—crags and chasms of the mind. Jeffers was able to look beyond the familiar horizons. He was a prophet whose gaze was not limited by time and space. But he was much more than "a prophet of doom." He pointed out for us the towering beauty of the earth, which we overlook, or which we only realize in part because we ourselves are only part of something. His eyes searched the horizons for a sign of that which he knew we should become. He saw that unless we found a way out of our self-made prisons, we would die, and he pointed the way over and over again.

"But for each man there is a real solution. Let him turn from himself and man to love God. He is out of the trap then. He will remain part of the music, but he will hear it as the player hears it. He will be superior to death and fortune, unmoved by success or failure. Pity can make him weep still, or pain convulse him, but not to the center, and he can conquer them . . . But how could I impart this knowledge? . . . I know that all men instinctively rebel against it. But yet they will come to it at last. Then man will have come of age; he will suffer and still die, but like a God, not a tortured animal."

Here was a voice crying out of the darkness that humanity might at last find its own glory and thus transcend "the splendor of inhuman things."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON

The connection between loving one's fellow man and knowing God will be emphasized at Christian Science services Sunday.

Opening the Bible readings in the Lesson-Sermon on "Love" are these verses: "Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God; for God is love" (I John 4).

A citation to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy states: "Love inspires, illumines, designates, and leads the way. Right motives give pinions to thought, and strength and freedom to speech and action" (p. 454).

Women Plan Peace Group

A dozen housewives from Carmel and other parts of the Peninsula met at the home of Mrs. Alan Marcus Friday evening to lay plans for the formation of a women's peace group in this area. Patterning itself upon the Women For Peace organizations in San Francisco, Berkeley, and many other parts of the country, the group would hope to stimulate general interest in disarmament, strengthening of the United Nations, and related fields.

One of the initial activities of the local group will be an open meeting in the Monterey Library on February 16 at 8:00 o'clock in the evening. A representative from one of the Bay area peace groups will speak.

Dinner At Chanslors'

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Chanslor gave a dinner Saturday night for Dr. and Mrs. James Hopper of Sausalito, and Dr. Tjen, a physiologist from Bali, Indonesia, who has been in this country for four months and is currently at the University of California Medical Center in San Francisco. Both doctors had been attending the meetings of the Western Society for Clinical Research in Carmel last week.

The Chanslors' guests, many of them old friends of Jim Hopper's from his former Carmel days, were interested in Dr. Tjen's description of conditions in Indonesia, and were impressed with his mastery of the English language "learned in high school." French, German, English and Dutch were required courses in the Dutch-administered schools. "But doctors, scientists, and indeed all people, should have one universal language," added Dr. Tjen. "So much translating creates a great barrier among professions and individuals."

Film At Woman's Club

A portrait in color of Scandinavian history in the making will be presented by Curtis Nagel and William Moore at the general meeting of the Carmel Woman's Club on Monday at 2:00 o'clock in the afternoon. Elsinore Castle, the Fjord Festival, Scandinavian capital cities, old Viking villages, Lapps in their mountain camps, the Royal Opera House, the Miracle Play, Tivoli Gardens, Ribe's stork nests, and many other beautifully photographed scenes will be shown.

Mr. Nagel has spoken before at the Woman's Club and was received with enthusiasm and record attendance. He was first associated with Technicolor Company, and later produced films for Paramount and Twentieth-Century; also co-producer of Tabu, which won an academy award.

Mr. Moore was also associated with Technicolor and with Tiffany films. He made a documentary of the construction of American air bases throughout the world during World War II.

Jennifer Rowntree Born

Mr. and Mrs. Cedric Rowntree, former Carmelites now living in Danville, are "shouting from the rooftops" the news that they have a granddaughter, Jennifer Rowntree, born on January 19 in Pasadena.

Jennifer's great-grandmother, Mrs. Lester Rowntree, authority on California native plants and author of children's books, lives on the slope of Wildcat Canyon below Carmel. The baby's parents are Rowan and Nancey Rowntree. Rowan attended Sunset School when his parents lived here, later was a student at Monterey Peninsula College. He graduated from San Francisco College, then married Nancey, a member of Alpha Phi sorority at the University of California. Her parents are Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth St. Clair of Orinda. Rowan is now associated with Crown Zellerbach Corporation in Southern California. His great-great-aunt was the late Miss Josephine Culbertson of Carmel, and his grandfather, another Carmelite, was the late Bernard Rowntree.

His parents, Cedric and Harriette Rowntree, report that they plan to come back here to live when Cedric retires "someday." He is a staff member of the California Department of Education, responsible for fire training instruction in the entire area between San Francisco and King City. When he lived here he was a member of the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department.

Other news in the Rowntrees' letter is that their second son, Lester, is finishing Army training at Fort Ord and expects to go to Germany in March. Their daughter, Pat, now 14 years old, is a student at San Ramon High School.

Funds For Japanese Orphanage

Captain John O. Arnn, USA, of Carmel, assistant to the operations officer at the U.S. Army Terminal Command, North Pier, Yokohama, is custodian of the 1962 Garden of Light Orphanage Fund. Fifteen thousand dollars is required to erect a new building for the orphanage, of which $7,000 was donated in 1961.

Captain Arnn led a five-man team on a 826-mile road march before Christmas to raise funds for the orphanage, which is situated on Kyushu.

According to Captain Arnn, hundreds of Japanese are contributing small amounts to the orphanage's account at Sumitomo Bank, Oita Branch, Oita, Japan.

In Honor of Hildegard and Kurt

The hail and farewell party given Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Julian von Meier for her son and daughter-in-law, Kurt and Hildegard von Meier, was the occasion for many reminiscences among the younger group present, many of them former Carmel High School students.

Sharing memories over the cheese fondue and champagne were Skip and Sue Lloyd, Joe and Ruth Hafrington Russell, both couples now living in San Francisco; Jim and Barbara Miller of Salinas; Dick and Marty Elmore of Palo Alto; and Kurt's two sisters, Kathie (Mrs. Carol McKenney), from San Leandro, and Karen (Mrs. John Christian), of Carmel, with their husbands.

Among other guests were several of Kurt's former Carmel High School teachers and other Carmel friends, gathered to wish him well in his new post as assistant professor at the University of New Zealand.

Mr. and Mrs. Bart Anthony Hancock, pictured above at their wedding reception, were married last Friday noon in All Saints' Episcopal Church with the Reverend H. M. M. Nicholas officiating.

The bride is the former Nicola Lockwood Harrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Harrison of Carmel. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Roberta Hancock of Carmel, and Sherwood C. Hancock of Portland, Oregon.

Nicola, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a short white satin damask gown. Her veil was held by a small crown of seed pearls and crystals, and she carried a crescent-shaped bouquet of white cymbidium orchids and stephanotis.

Nicola's sister, Jeremy, a sophomore at Carmel High School, was her bridesmaid, and Pamela Canfield of Pebble Beach was her maid of honor. They wore short bouffant dresses of mint green peau de soie, and carried white rosebuds and stephanotis.

Bart's cousin, Lawrence A. Maguire of San Jose, was best man. Ushers were Ted Leidig and Kenneth Edward of Carmel.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Harrison wore a gold brocade sheath dress and jacket, with a small brown veil hat, brown shoes, and a blending orchid corsage. Mrs. Hancock as her attire, chose a royal blue and green brocade sheath dress under a silver fox cape, a green hat trimmed with blue flowers, and an off-white cymbidium corsage.

Guests arriving at the Harrison's home in Hatton Fields for the wedding reception were charmed by the decorations which included a huge sheaf of apple blossoms, like a tree in bloom, over which hung suspended from the ceiling 11 porcelain doves made especially for the occasion by Marguerite Ransford of Los Angeles, who also made the two porcelain snowbirds which topped the wedding cake—snowbirds because Nicola grew up in Canada. The knife with which the young couple cut their cake had been given to Nicola by singers Joan Sutherland and George London who used it in the opera Don Giovanni at a Vancouver International Festival.

When the bride and groom left for a ten-day honeymoon in Palm Springs, Nicola was clad in a blue wool suit dress, black patent leather shoes and a small blue hat trimmed with jet beads. Her bag matched her shoes and her corsage was from the center of her bridal bouquet.

Nicola graduated from high school in West Vancouver, Canada, and from the University of California at Santa Barbara in June of 1961. She has acted extensively on the stage, professionally in Vancouver from the age of seven, and in Peninsula plays, among them the Studio Theatre's production Leave It To Jane. She was most recently seen as Bianca in The Taming of the Shrew at the Golden Bough Circle Theatre.

The bride has a young brother, Graeme Harrison of Carmel.

Bart is a graduate of Sunset School and Carmel High School, also of Monterey Peninsula College last June. During the past semester he has been taking advanced courses in electronics at MPC, and on Monday will take a position with I.B.M. in San Jose. I.B.M. has also given him a scholarship for continued study in electronic engineering. The young couple will live in San Jose.

Out of town guests here for the wedding included Bart's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Keith R. Maguire of Portland, Mrs. Lucretia Pengra, Bart's great-aunt, also of Portland, Mrs. Lawrence A. Maguire of San Jose, and Mr. and Mrs. James MacDonald of Los Angeles, close friends of the bride's family.

Michael Allen Visits Parents

The Reverend Michael Allen of New York City, who has been rector of St. Mark's In-the-Bowery there for the past two years, was here for a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Allen of Carmel, this week.

A graduate of Harvard University and a former Sorbonne student, he came to the West Coast at the request of Bishop James A. Pike who notified him of a possible vacancy in a San Francisco Bay area parish. For both Mr. Allen and the bishop it was a renewal of a friendship established several years ago when the former was an editor of Look magazine assigned to interview the then Dean Pike in his church, St. John the Divine, in New York City.

Through this meeting, Michael Allen became interested in the ministry as a profession, and enrolled in Episcopal Theological Seminary, Cambridge, Massachusetts, where he completed his theological preparation.

Following his ordination, he was assigned to the historic Bowery parish, which lies in New York's area of substandard housing and racial turbulence, close to Greenwich Village. Among Mr. Allen's projects for the improvement of living conditions for his parishioners has been an effort to provide a playground in a park for children who have no other place for recreation but the streets.

Reverend Allen preached last Sunday at Christ Church in Los Altos. He and Mrs. Allen, who make their home in New York City, have three children.

Seventh Child for Campbells

Their seventh child and fifth daughter was welcomed Sunday at Peninsula Community Hospital by Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Campbell of Carmel Valley. At last check, the family was considering "Cecilia" as a name for the little girl.

Brothers and sisters, all of them natives of Carmel and all of them born, like Cecilia, at Community Hospital, are Gayle, ten; Russell, nine; Douglas, eight; Maureen, five; Anita, three, and Deanna, one-and-a-half years old. All the older children are students at Carmelo School.

Steinke-Reed Wedding

With quiet informality, Karen Steinke became the bride of Howard Dee Reed Sunday afternoon, January 21, in the Carmel Presbyterian Church with Dr. Joseph Ewing officiating.

The Carmel soprano, who is a member of the Carmel High School faculty, chose a simple two-piece blue jacketed dress for the occasion. The bridal pair was attended by friends, Mr. and Mrs. Vitaly Volmensky of Pacific Grove. Fred Lewis provided nuptial music at the organ.

A mutual interest in music helped pave the way for romance for Karen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George I. Steinke of Kingman, Arizona, and Howard, who is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Reed of Midland, Texas.

The benedict, a baritone and a member of the Fort Ord Soldiers' Chorus, attended North Texas State University as a music major prior to his army service, which will last until next September.

The bride, whose ties with the Peninsula go back at least two generations (her mother was Carol Fitzsimmons of Pacific Grove, daughter of Pacific Grove pioneer Judge Fitzsimmons), has been a resident of the Carmel area for the past four years and has received many honors for her appearances in concerts and recitals here and elsewhere in California.

She attended the University of Southern California and graduated in music from the University of Arizona. Mrs. Reed will be a soloist in March with the Monterey County Symphony, and will participate in a concert in April in connection with the dedication of the new music building at Monterey Peninsula College.

Following the informal rites Sunday, the bridal party gathered again for a wedding dinner at the Highlands Inn. Mr. and Mrs. Reed will make their home in Carmel Highlands.

Music On The Peninsula

by Mary Lindsay-Oliver

The Occidental College Glee Club that has given concerts here on several occasions, was welcomed again Saturday when they appeared under auspices of the Carmel Kiwanis Club at Sunset Auditorium. As a group of adult students, they do excellent work under the dignified, artistic direction of Howard Swan.

The concert opened with Bach's motet, Sing ye to the Lord, which was followed by 16th century madrigals, three chansons by Debussy, Poulenc and Ravel, also Vaughan Williams' See the Chariot at Hand. This latter number proved to be an outstandingly beautiful wedding song from the composer's cantata, In Windsor Forest, and quite English in character. The Broken Melody sung by the good male chorus was also outstanding.

Virgil Thompson was represented by his setting of Blake's, Tiger! Tiger! The rest of the program was comprised of various songs of America and ended with selections from Brigadoon and Occidental Fair that thoroughly pleased the well-filled house. The audience included many young people and choir boys.

Soloists were Gloria Prosper, whose rendering of Niles Go Away From My Door was excellent; also Dorothy Bogert, James Fletcher and Richard Milius. Susan Hamilton was the capable accompanist. Their scholarly director, Howard Swan, has made the group a famous one among college choirs, and he adds informative notes on the printed program.

The popular San Francisco tenor, James Schwabacher, soloist for many seasons with the Carmel Bach Festival, received last Thursday in New York an unprecedented "press" on the front page of the Herald Tribune headed "San Francisco Businessman-Tenor Packs 'Em In at New York Debut." Critic Martin Bernheimer praised his musical interpretations and his diction as "exceptionally clear and idiomatic in four languages;" also reported that the audience contained many Metropolitan Opera celebrites and elite concert-goers in the full house, rare for a debut.

betterment. Of her great and abiding interest in her community, a member of her family said simply, "She loves this town."

Other enthusiasms of Mr. and Mrs. Leidig are their great-grandchildren, Sheryl, two, and Steven, six months old, children of of Mr. and Mrs. Brian Leidig. Besides Brian, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Dale Leidig, they have another grandson, Don Leidig, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Leidig.

Rose reminded prospective applicants for the vacancy created by Mrs. Leidig's resignation that applications must be made at the city hall prior to March 7. The city's four election boards must be set up by March 9, but the appointments must come before the city council at its meeting March 7.

Work On Valley Gas Main Begins; School Ahead Of Schedule

a bridge is being constructed by Carmel Hacienda. The main will provide gas service to residents of the lower part of the Valley for the first time.

Just beyond the Valley entrance, construction of Carmel Junior High School is ahead of schedule, according to Thomas Elston, one of the architects for the project.

Most of the concrete column roof supports are finished. Next week roof framing is expected to start, also the pouring of concrete slabs for floors in the school buildings.

At the intersection of the highway and Carmel Valley Road, the county road department is surfacing new entrances and exits, also widened approaches. This work was begun before Christmas. When completed it will provide safer traffic conditions at the intersection.

GOD AND HUMAN PROGRESS

Progress doesn't just happen. Neither does God bestow it upon us. It has to be achieved. God gave us no fixed pattern of progress. He gave us the freedom to work out our own patterns. We have to learn from experience which ways go ahead and which are dead ends.

Churches can be helpful in our development. We can't trust them or anyone else to do our thinking for us or to make our decisions for us, but they offer us a stimulus to thought, and an inspiration toward the good life, as no other social group does. They give us fellowship and cooperation in seeking the good life, but no one has the final pattern. Neither Bibles nor saints of the past ages have the answers to our present day problems.

The Unitarian church does not offer you final answers. It has no creed, no dogmas. It uses the Bible and all other literature as an aid to thinking and a source of inspiration, not as divinely revealed truth. If you would like a church where you are encouraged and stimulated to think, where religion is not memory work but a democratic search for truth and the good life, where people are not afraid of new or different ideas, you would enjoy the Unitarian church.

Pictured above as they came down the aisle of the Church of the Wayfarer after their marriage last Saturday are Mr. and Mrs. John Hooker Schultz, Jr. The bride is the former Luisa Delight Sciutto, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles William Sciutto of Carmel. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Hooker Schultz of San Marino.

The afternoon ceremony, performed by Dr. K. Fillmore Gray, took place at 2:00 o'clock. The church was decorated with pink gladioli and carnations and white chrysanthemums. Organ music was played by Mrs. Connell K. Carruth.

Luisa, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of bridal satin with sweetheart neckline, basque waist and bouffant skirt. A pearl-studded satin pillbox topped her beehive veil. She carried a white Bible to which was attached a white orchid, streamers of white tuberoses and white satin ribbon.

The maid of honor, Teresa Schultz, sister of the bridegroom, and the two bridesmaids, Susanna Ward Sciutto, Luisa's sister, and Bette Kankkonen of Berkeley, a sorority sister of the bride, wore dresses of moss green satin with boat necklines, fitted bodices, cap sleeves detailed with small tailored bows, and barrel skirts. Talisman roses formed their bouquets.

Charles Martin, of Roswell, New Mexico, a fraternity brother of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were Paul Smith of La Canada, and Garfield Sciutto, brother of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a romance pink ensemble with a matching flowered hat. Mrs. Schultz, mother of the bridegroom, had on a gown and hat, very pale pastel green in hue.

The reception following the ceremony was held in the Terrace Room of La Playa Hotel, decorated with white spring flowers.

The young couple cut a traditional white, tiered cake before leaving on their wedding trip. Luisa's going-away outfit was a light blue wool suit, a beige knit coat and brown accessories.

Honeymooning in Southern California until next week, Luisa and John will be at home in Berkeley after March 1. They are both students at the University of California at Berkeley. Luisa is a member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority; John's fraternity is Alpha Tau Omega.

Out of town guests who came to Carmel for the wedding included Mrs. Louise Sciutto and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Tubbs of Hollister; Mr. and Mrs. Garfield D. Merner and Jay McEvoy from San Francisco; Paul Merner and his son, of Palo Alto; Miss E. Grace Ward, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Ward and their son, of Morgan Hill; Mr. and Mrs. Ralph C. Lee, San Mateo; Mr. and Mrs. Fred C. Frey, Hillsborough; Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Sciutto, Berkeley; Mrs. Charles Schultz, Bill McAfee, Jr., San Francisco, and Ward McAfee, from Stanford, sons of Mrs. Mary Louise McAfee of Carmel, and cousins of the bride; Lois Root of Stanford, fiancee of Ward McAfee; and Delbert D. May of Mountain View.

Summit Conferences Disaster To U. S. Crocker Tells WAC

than dominant in eastern Europe at the end of the war.

"Stalin handled Roosevelt," Crocker said, and pointed out how this handling continued through successive Summit meetings.

At Quebec Summit in 1943, Roosevelt let it be known that "Russia's post-war position in Europe will be a dominant one." This had a made-in-Moscow look, Crocker inferred.

At Cairo, also in 1943, Roosevelt demanded that China's President Chiang Kai-Shek take the Communists into his fold. At Teheran, immediately afterward, Roosevelt showed detachment from Winston Churchill, and without consulting the British Prime Minister, announced the United States' and Britain's determination to accept nothing but unconditional surrender of Germany, Italy and Japan, thus prolonging the war another two years and adjusting the political balance of power in post-war Europe in favor of the Soviet Union. "A calamity of historic proportions," Crocker emphasized.

At Yalta Summit in 1945, Stalin was promised that Russian nationals rounded up by the Americans and British in Germany, France and Italy would be deported to Russia. This, indicated Crocker, meant the firing squad or starvation in Siberia for 2,000,000 Russian exiles.

More recently, in 1955, continued Crocker, President Dwight D. Eisenhower went to the Geneva Summit Conference and returned optimistic about Soviet promises, including their agreement for free elections. These were meaningless. "The Geneva Conference was but a fancy prelude to the rape of Hungary three months later," Crocker said.

The Camp David fiasco gave Khrushchev material with which to taunt America, he added, and ended by stating that President John F. Kennedy in June, at Vienna, inferentially tried to "size up Khrushchev," and in August the Russians built the Berlin Wall.

And now, Crocker pointed out, Russia's Gromyko is "sounding the call for another Summit Conference and a return by the people of the United States to the methods and attitudes of the great F.D.R."
